Northern Trust to Manage Investment Programs for Feeding America

CHICAGO, May 12, 2014 – Northern Trust announced that it has been selected to provide OCIO (Outsourced Chief Investment Officer) services for Feeding America, the nation’s leading hunger relief organization.

“We feel privileged and proud to serve Feeding America,” said Darius A. Gill, Managing Director - Central Region, Northern Trust Foundation and Institutional Advisors. “We look forward to helping manage the assets of, and being a resource to, the Foundation for years to come.”

Foundation & Institutional Advisors is a dedicated practice within Northern Trust that serves nonprofit organizations through sophisticated investment management solutions, strategic insights and world-class resources. More information about the Foundation and Institutional Advisory can be found at www.northerntrust.com/FIA.

Feeding America’s mission is to feed America’s hungry through a nationwide network of member food banks and to engage the country in the fight to end hunger. This is done by collective partnerships between Feeding America’s national office and local food banks with the goal of increasing efficiencies and maximizing impact.

As an OCIO, Northern Trust provides investment advice, asset servicing and other related services to help nonprofit organizations achieve their financial and philanthropic goals cost-effectively. Northern Trust collaborates with board and investment committee members to assist them with their investment oversight duties and governance.
