GLOBAL REAL ESTATE INDEX FUND (NGREX)

As of 12/31/18

FUND COMMENTARY

In the fourth quarter of 2018, the MSCI ACWI IMI Core Real Estate Index returned -5.28% outperforming the broader global equity market, represented by MSCI World Index, which returned -13.42% in the fourth quarter.

The top-performing countries over this time period were Brazil and Qatar, returning 36.37% and 17.69%, respectively. France and Mexico were the worst-performing countries for this quarter, with returns of -19.79% and -17.50%, respectively.

During the quarter, the Global Real Estate Index Fund returned -5.43%, in-line with the Fund's benchmark the MSCI ACWI IMI Core Real Estate Index returns of -5.28%. Global equity markets fell significantly in the fourth quarter as investors were concerned with continued pressure on the global growth story. The energy and information technology sectors fell the most relative to other sectors with the utility and real estate sectors posting the best returns as equity investors flocked into defensive sectors. From a regional standpoint, Asia-Pacific and Europe posted stronger returns than their North American counterparts. This shift from third quarter was a result of investors focus on the U.S. amid interest rate increases and fears over the ongoing trade war. Within Europe, Brexit negotiations stayed on the forefront of headlines along with civil unrest across France. From a global perspective, interest rates remain low and supportive of future economic growth as headlines continue to dominate the market.
